DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being unpatentable by Toy (U.S. 4,554,418).

Toy discloses claims:

A computer system and method for delivering at least one financial message to a client user regarding financial activity, the computer system comprising at least one computing device comprising:

a registration system program (122) configured to register a client user and determine the messages to be received by the client user;

a message creation system program (140) configured to monitor financial activity, create messages as requested by the client user regarding the activity and deliver messages;

an intervention system program (141) configured to allow an internal user of the system to at least one of add to and edit content of a message to a client user prior to delivery;

wherein the registration system includes a registration interface module configured to create a client user preference designation interface to determine the messages received by the client user (270);

a client user message inbox for viewing a client user message (261; 263); and

An internal user interface system for an internal user of a financial message delivery system, the interface system comprising:

- means for designating internal user message preferences (110);
- means for designating client user message preferences (122);
- means for viewing client user or internal user messages (122);
- means for replying to client user messages (110; also see figs. 1 & 2);
- means for creating messages (110); and
- means for searching for messages for a client user (col.5, line29-col.10, line 64).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 5/12/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

With respect to applicant's argument that Toy reference does not show allowing an internal user to intervene in the process of delivering a financial message to a client prior to the delivery of message. In contrary, Toy reference discloses "The communication line processor 270 of the preferred embodiment comprises an independent processor that may be programmed to handle functions such as protocol conversion, format conversion, and error checking and correction, thus relieving the central processing unit from such tasks and providing intelligence to the communications line involved" (col.7, lines 29-37). Toy'418 reference further discloses "Input data 121 may comprise stock ticker data, securities or financial data from other sources, or any form of information for which monitoring and notification are desired. (col7, lines 48-54)

With respect to applicant's argument that Toy does not disclose or suggest any one of the internal user functions of claim 17. In contrary, Toy discloses a system having multiplicity of input lines 250 and associated communications to accommodate all information services of interests, i.e. including all internal user functions and updating 123 the internal historical data files. (see col.7, line 48-col.8, line 65).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
